

In Memory of Lucianna Gladney Ross

In 1970 Lucianna Gladney Ross, launched an energetic restoration project that literally saved the City of Kimmswick. Mrs. Ross started this project because of her love of Kimmswick from recollections from her childhood. Lucianna Gladney Ross The restoration of old buildings - some dating from 1872 - was primary to the revival of the town. Kimmswick has come a long way since the restoration began to its designation on the National Register. On January 24, 2012 Lucianna Gladney Ross died at her home in Saint Louis, Missouri, she will be forever missed.

Greatly because of Mrs. Ross this Historic Mississippi River Town has been selected as one of the Top 100 Small Town Getaways by Midwest Living Magazine. We invite you to "Getaway", for an afternoon or a weekend.
